Merger Arbitrage

“Merger Arbitrage” is the predominant strategy of the fund; this involves capturing a profit from the discount between the market price and the “deal” price for a target company in an announced, legally-binding, merger situation. There are two main types of corporate mergers: cash and stock mergers. In stock mergers, the fund hedges market risk by selling short the acquiring company shares, while simultaneously buying the target company shares. In cash mergers, there is no need to hedge with the acquirer’s stock. In both situations the resulting portfolio is market-neutral. This fund utilizes leverage to enhance returns.

Investment Objective & Strategy

The fundamental investment objective of the Vertex Liquid Alternative Fund (“VLAF”) is to generate consistent, positive returns, with low volatility and low correlation to equity markets by investing in securities in Canada, the United States and in other foreign jurisdictions.

The Vertex Liquid Alternative Fund primarily employs arbitrage strategies, which are specialized investment techniques designed to profit from the successful completion of mergers, take-overs, tender offers, leveraged buyouts, spin-offs, liquidations, and other corporate reorganizations. The most common arbitrage activity the Manager intends to use is merger arbitrage, which involves purchasing the shares of an announced acquisition target company at a discount to the expected merger consideration.

Example of Merger Arbitrage

Illustrated below, is the all-cash acquisition of Precision Castparts by Berkshire Hathaway with a comparison to the US stock market over the same time period. A profit can be generated from the closing of the spread between the market price and deal price, which occurred independently of the market's return.

This mutual fund is an alternative mutual fund. It is permitted to invest in asset classes or use investment strategies that are not permitted for other types of mutual funds. The specific strategies that differentiate this fund from other types of mutual funds include: increased use of derivatives for hedging and non-hedging purposes; increased ability to sell securities short; the ability to borrow cash to use for investment purposes; and increased ability to invest in physical commodities. While these strategies will be used in accordance with the fund's investment objectives and strategies, during certain market conditions they may accelerate the pace at which your investment decreases in value. This statistical information is intended to provide you with information about the Vertex Liquid Alternative Fund. Advertised performance is based on Class F shares. Important information about the Fund is contained in the Simplified Prospectus which should be read carefully before investing.
