Investment Objectives

The fundamental investment objective of the Vertex Value Fund is to provide long term capital growth by investing primarily in the equity securities of Canadian and United States companies.

Investment Strategy

Our investment process involves seeking out primarily equity securities of companies that we determine to be priced at attractive levels relative to the market, their competitors and their growth rates. Companies with annuity like cash flows, strong balance sheets and high dividend yields will be given the greatest weighting.

Fourth Quarter Commentary

2017 was another good year for your Vertex Value Fund – not just from a return perspective but from the plethora of excellent investment choices available. Even in the smaller stock arena, action has been dominated by cannabis stocks and companies with names including “Blockchain”, or should I say pseudo-companies with some coders. Don’t get me wrong – we’re fans of the potential for Blockchain technology. Your fund’s top performing stock for 2017 was Overstock.com, which is heavily into Blockchain and rose from $15 to $75 a share. That said, it’s amazing how fast the Rounders and Charlatans get in on the action to offer unsuspecting investors “product” to supply their get-rich-quick addiction.

As I’m writing this note in early February, the “market” has encountered a bit of a hiccup and found itself on the evening news, again. I’d like to reiterate, it’s irrelevant to your investments, so far as its temporary marks on paper. Down markets are when active managers get to make the real money. Passive investments are shackled from seizing this opportunity. Not sure what other investors are doing, but we’ve been using this volatility to trim our positions trading at all-time highs (Qorvo, Overstock.com, Calamp, and BofI) to purchase more junior energy (trading at all-time lows). An investment horizon is years, not days or months.
