Investment Objectives

The fundamental investment objective of the Vertex Value Fund is to provide long term capital growth by investing primarily in the equity securities of Canadian and United States companies.

Investment Strategy

Our investment process involves seeking out primarily equity securities of companies that we determine to be priced at attractive levels relative to the market, their competitors and their growth rates. Companies with annuity like cash flows, strong balance sheets and high dividend yields will be given the greatest weighting.

Second Quarter Commentary

We're hearing a lot about volatility these days. The word seems to have permeated our investment lexicon. It's as if there's something in the investment world that's void of volatility. "Low vol" is what so many are selling and eager ears are eating it up. I'm not sure what to make of it, but the idea that one can get a decent return today, and low volatility simultaneously, is a hard one to swallow. Presently, there is a grand illusion unfolding as recent performance has investors believing the "market", as represented by the major indexes, has lower volatility than contrasting portfolios such as ours. The facts dispute this belief, as "the market" has seen declines of 40% plus twice since founding Vertex One. Your Value Funds have never experienced this kind of downside volatility. Our portfolio differs vastly from the market; thus, our volatility will appear at different intervals. We may be down when the market is flat, or up, or the opposite may also occur. Interestingly, the more investors place their investment in the market the smoother returns appear. Frankly, index investing scares the pants off us.

Your portfolios have not changed much since our first quarter update. We did, however, further reduce our US regional banks in favour of adding to energy companies. Negative sentiment attracts us like mice to cheese, and the sentiment on energy is at a low unseen for decades.
